Jarrett takes tie-down roping lead

GUYMON, Okla. – Ryan Jarrett is just looking for a little momentum.

He may have found it at the Guymon Pioneer Days Rodeo. On Saturday afternoon during the annual rodeo's second performance, the Georgia-born cowboy roped and tied his calf in 9.5 seconds. He is among the leaders in the third round; more importantly, he leads the average with a three-run cumulative time of 26.0 seconds.

"They hadn't really done anything on that calf the two previous rounds," said Jarrett, the 2005 all-around world champion from Comanche, Okla. "I ended up missing the (start) a little bit, so I just went and tied her down."

He already has seen some success in the Oklahoma Panhandle this week. He won the second go-round and has already pocketed a much-needed check worth $1,744. By the time the rodeo ends Sunday afternoon, he should earn another check with a high finish in the average – the 9.5-second run from Saturday afternoon likely will not earn any third-round money.

"Until that money I won the other day, I have not won a PRCA check since Feb. 5 in Rapid City (S.D.)," said Jarrett, an eight-time qualifier to the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo.

Pioneer Days Rodeo is a big event for all the contestants, but it's especially nice for contestants like Jarrett that compete in the Prairie Circuit, the region that is made up of cowboys, cowgirls and rodeos primarily in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

"It's like double-dipping," he said. "Coming to a good rodeo that counts for your circuit, too, is perfect.

"This rodeo's always been pretty good for me."
